

A ROSY FUTURE

MR. Lee looks long and intently at the picture of his four children. He is thinking of his plans about them for the future. Karylle, the eldest, will become a teacher. Dave, the next, will study engineering. Sunshine will take up nursing, and Steeve, the youngest, will someday be a doctor. They will all be an honor to the family, and dependable props in his old age.

Karylle will be able to help him support the family very soon. She will graduate from the University in the town after a year, and will most probably teach in the elementary school there. Dave will soon finish his high school education and will enroll in college next June. Everything will turn out right, Mr. Lee muses. He will see to it that his children get the best education he can give them.

Questions:

1. Who will become a nurse someday?
2. Who will study medicine?
3. Who will take up engineering?
4. Who will be a teacher?
5. How will Karylle be a help to the family?
6. Why will Mr. Lee's children be an honor to the family?
7. When will Dave enter college?
8. How will life turn out for his children according to Mr. Lee?