

I feel so tired this morning...

Dialogue

M: Oh, I feel so tired this morning.

F: You! You kept me awake all night with your tossing and turning. Most night I just have to put up with your snoring, but last night was worse.

M: It must have been something I ate.

F: But what could it be. You just had the usual food, didn't you?

M: I guess so. Maybe it just wasn't cooked well.

F: Thanks a lot.

M: No, I mean, maybe it was spoiled or something.

F: I think it stress. Is everything okay at work?

M: Yes, nothing different.

F: Then it must be our marriage! What's wrong? Are you seeing some other woman?

M: No, of course not. I don't have enough time or enough money to do so.

F: Then what is the matter?

M: I don't know. It's probably just nerves. I'm sure I'll be okay tonight.

F: I hope so. We both need plenty of beauty sleep.

M: Hey, speak for yourself.

Question

1. What is the dialogue all about?
2. What is the problem of the couple?
3. Do you stress is the root cause of their misunderstanding? Why?
